

Lakshini Weerasekera did her Ph.D under the supervision of Dr. Lois Balmer and Prof. Grant Morahan at the Center for Diabetes Research, University of Western Australia. In 2003, she graduated from University Bangalore, India with a Bachelor of Science degree in Genetics, Biochemistry and Microbiology. Upon graduation, she joined the Human Genetics Unit, Faculty of Medicine in Colombo, Sri Lanka, where she worked on thrombophilic polymorphisms and its association with pregnancy complications. During her research career, Lakshini has published several papers in reputed journals. Lakshini is currently working on projects that examine the impact of novel therapeutics on blood pressures in mouse models of hypertension such as the Schlager mouse.